FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 18.

COST OF LOAFERISM .- Does the young man who persists in being a loafer ever reflect how much less it would cost to be a decent, respectable man? Does he imagine that loaferism is more economical than gentlity? Anybody can be a gentleman, if he chooses to be, without much cost, but it is mighty expensive being a loafer. It costs time, in the first placedays, weeks, months of it-in fact, about all the time he has, for no man can be a first class loafer without devoting nearly his entire at tention to it. The occupation, well followed, hardly affords time for eating, sleeping, dri-we had almost said drinking, but on reflection, we will except that. The loafer finds time to drink when invited. It costs friends. Once fully embarked on the sea of loaterism, and you bid farewell to every friendly sail that floats under an honest and legitimate flag. Your consorts will only be the buccaneers of society. It costs money, for though the loafer may not earn a dollar or have one for months, the time lost might have produced much money if devoted to industry instead of sloth. It costs health, vigor, comfort—all the true pleasures of living, honor, society, selfrespect, and the respect of the good when living, and, finally, all regret when dead.

When Lord Sandwich (who was said to have been the inventor of the sandwich) was First Lord of the Admiralty, and was enter-tained by the corporation of Worcester, a serwant let fall a net's tongue, and, when the Mayor apologized for the mishap, Lord Sandwich said, 'Never mind, it is only a lapsus linguæ,' which raised a hugh. An alderman who was present, treasured this saying in his memory, and quoted it when his servant threw down a leg of mutton, and was greatly surprised at his quotation falling so flat.
